Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to recommend Dominique Daliogne for a position with your company. Dominique has been involved in The National Society of Leadership and Success (NSLS) at Southern New Hampshire University and has earned the Foundations of Leadership Certificate, a rigorous leadership training program facilitated through our organization.

As leadership skills are important in any successful business, I am confident Dominique would be an excellent candidate for your organization. Through the NSLS, Dominique committed to leadership training focused on collaboration, goal setting, high achievement, honing leadership skills and styles, self-motivation, and accountability. These exemplary qualities are aligned with employees who are poised for success. Instead of needing to acquire these skills on the job, Dominique will come to your organization with them already developed.

The NSLS is the nation's largest leadership honor society, providing over two million members with life-changing certification programs, personal growth, and professional development resources. Since joining, Dominique has attended training broadcasts with leaders such as Adam Grant, Lindsey Vonn, Arnold Schwarzenegger, Deion Sanders, Matthew McConaughey, Dr. Bernice King, Daymond John, Robin Roberts, and more.

Additionally, through bi-weekly networking team meetings, Dominique has learned how to use a peer group to increase performance while completing a journal to document progress and goals. Finally, Dominique attended a comprehensive Leadership Training Day to connect all new learnings. The certificate process is completed by an average of one percent of the students on college campuses running the NSLS program.

I hope you will consider Dominique for a position within your company. The leadership certification Dominique has completed will directly contribute to increased performance.

Very truly yours,

Tierney Wade
